Just behind Art Basel, you can easily reach VOLTA Art Fair, now in its twentieth anniversary, marking a turning point with its move to a new location that expands its spaces, programs, and audience. Over 65 galleries from more than 20 countries are participating in an edition that celebrates Basel as the cradle of the project—a true love letter to the city that has hosted the event for two decades—and that embraces new geographies. The MENA Pavilion, curated by Randa Sadaka, focuses on artistic practices from the Middle East and North Africa, with galleries from Iran, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, and Egypt, many of which are making their European debut.
